

RAILWAY NEWS.

The Influence of the American Railway System—Lackawanna Stock—Other Items of the Rail.

N. A. Crawford, of the C. I. St. L. and C. Railroad, has been appointed Traveling Freight Agent of the above road, with headquarters at Indianapolis.

A railway ticket has been patented by Mr. Charles J. Knapp, of Deposit, N. Y. This invention provides a specially devised coupon book for "thousand-mile" railway tickets, to promote convenience in their taking up or punching, and to enable the holder to easily verify the mileage punched out by the conductor.

A railroad signal system has been patented by Messrs. William Hadden, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Henry Van Hovenberg, of Elizabeth, N. J. A continuous electric current is employed for holding signal banners in position to indicate safety, and the current is rapidly interrupted to weaken the signal to fall to indicate danger, this being effected by a peculiar combination of track instruments, interrupters and magnets.

Lackawanna is the joy of its friends and the sorrow of its foes. No stock has so registered raids, and its strength has taunted the bears into attack after attack, only to retire, battered and bruised. When Delaware and Hudson and Lehigh Valley reduced dividends, shorts were extensively put on Lackawanna, in the expectation of seeing it follow the lead of its fellow colliers. The bears, with some magnifying, but in patient hope, saw the price go up until the declaration of the usual quarterly dividend compelled them to defeat and to cover.—Railway News.

The potent influence of the railway is the great factor in the progress and development of civilization, during the last half century, cannot be disputed. The proofs are as clear as daylight, and the results are nowhere more astonishing than in the United States. A vast system of 121,592 miles of track, extending from the Canadas to the boundary line of Mexico and the Atlantic Coast to the shores of the Pacific, with a large part of the intermediate are traversed in all directions, holds the Union in its strong and vitalizing embrace, and diffuses the currents of industry and trade through the length and breadth of the land. Not only have remote districts been thus opened to settlement, and the soil to cultivation, but markets have been made available to these fertile regions of the distant interior by rates of transportation which, fifty years since, would have been considered impossible.

THE BIGGEST BIG SHOW.

John B. Dorrie's New Monster Aggregation United With The Great Inter-Ocean.

Three ring circus, fifty cage menagerie, marvelous museum, deep-sea aquarium, and elevated theater stage, making it in all the most gigantic and stupendous organization now traveling; absolutely beyond rivalry, requiring for its transportation three palace railway trains. The greatest, grandest, best and only show coming to Indianapolis this season April 17 and 18. With this great caravan of bewildering amusements comes "Bets," the oldest elephant in the world, 44 years of age. Too much can be said to urge our people to attend Dorrie's monster three-ring circus, fifty-cage menagerie, marvelous museum, deep-sea aquarium and elevated theater stage, which is the largest and finest ever seen in Indianapolis.

Mr. Dorrie has achieved the reputation of coming up to all he fully advertises, and many of our exchanges say he has done more than this. The grand free street parade gives full view of giant elephants, lions, tigers, camels and other wild beasts, representing every species of the brute creation. Twenty open dens of performing animals will be exposed to the public free of charge. We advise all to be in town in good season to witness this grand and gorgeous parade. Remember the day and date.

Great Discoveries.

The doctrine of gravitation; the theory of the compound nature of light, and the idea that electricity could be utilized for the purpose of conveying messages over wires to the remotest parts of the earth, and that it also possessed extraordinary power as a curative agent all found their Pope Urbans as did Galileo, the philosopher and mathematician, his. But bigotry and superstition have had to give place to stubborn facts, and to-day the door of no investigation is open to receive men who dive deep into the mysteries of nature's forces and fetch from thence the long-hidden agents and harness them for man's use and good. We no longer want to put the Morzes in the lunatic asylum for claiming that, by means of electricity and a single wire, messages could be sent to the remotest parts of the world, nor do we wonder at the Sharps for telling the world, after patient study and observation, that galvanism is a most wonderful curative agent, and that when properly applied its value in subduing the ills that man is heir to can not be measured. The dark eyes of prejudice and superstition have yielded to the bright light of the intelligence and civilization of the nineteenth century, and they can never return. The curative power of electricity and galvanism is a fact as firmly fixed and as unalterable as Galileo's theory that the earth revolved. The truth of the latter can be mathematically demonstrated, and the former can be substantiated, by living witnesses everywhere who have been permitted to participate in the benefits and advantages of electro-therapeutics. And perhaps none deserve more at the hands of the afflicted, the student, and, in fact, of our very civilization, for the discovery of appliances for controlling and applying the hitherto and unmanageable curative properties of galvanism and electricity than our own Dr. C. C. Sharpe. Nor could one spend a few hours to better advantage than in watching the marvelous precision with which his almost innumerable appliances work under the touch of the skilled hand of their ingenious inventor, who is none other than Dr. Sharpe himself.

Saving on Church Fees.

A Virginia correspondent of the Church Record tells this story: "One of our stewards called on a member of his church a few days ago for his quarterly. Two dollars was the amount demanded. 'That's too much,' demurred the brother. 'I don't think so,' said the steward. 'I can't afford to pay so much. I'll have to join Big Swamp Church,' naming a church of a sister denomination in the neighborhood. 'You won't save anything by that,' suggested the steward, 'for you'll have to pay there.' 'Oh, yes, I will save, for they have already offered to take me in for $1.25 a year.'

A Western man, taking the train for home at the Baltimore and Ohio Depot in Washington yesterday, is reported as saying: "It all comes of this blanketed new fangled mongwump game of penuckle which the President plays. If it is poker or even sevenup, I'd come in for an office blank quick."—New York Tribune.
